Live Simply is a special collection of homes designed by Stephen Fuller that illustrate the meaning to live simply.

We have learned over the last thirty-four years of practice that places are not easily defined - the architecture of today is not about designing places, it is about designing a sense of place. We must respond to modern lifestyles while respecting and celebrating all that is great about the past.

We have a passion for turning dreams and ideas into physical expressions of our love of classic design. From the first line we draw until the last brick laid, our unfaltering devotion to our craft results in beautifully inspiring places, grounded by precedent, but always of our time.

Stephen Fuller designs houses, communities, gathering places and more. All are places to be inspired by, all are places to call home.
There is beauty in simplicity.

ELIMINATE THE UNNECESSARY

STEPHEN FULLER
Stephen Fuller understands the demands of today’s active lifestyles and how lifestyle influences the flow of a home’s layout. He also understands that the vital ingredient missing in so many of today’s new homes is the appreciation of simplicity and quality in the design both exterior and interior. He draws his inspiration from the past as he introduces this collection of homes. Whether the architectural style is Craftsman or Southern Vernacular, each design was carefully created to become a home that will last for generations.
Home is where you bear love within the stillness.

Base Plans are typically designed with full basements and can be adapted for various lot conditions that may require crawl space or even a slab foundation. Please verify with your contractor which foundation type is best for your site and project requirements before ordering. When necessary, foundations can be easily modified, however modification fees will apply. Some municipalities may require a set of structural drawings in order to permit. These drawings do not include structural information.

A typical order comes with 8 full sets of printed plans. We can also provide a PDF file and a copyright release which will enable your builder to print drawings independently as needed for your specific project.

When a house plan is purchased, it is an agreement between Stephen Fuller Inc., and the purchaser, to build the specific design one time on their designated site. Re-use fees will apply for additional constructions. Plans are designed to meet the requirements of the Standard Building Code. Codes change and may require plan updates at time of permitting. Any changes to the plans must be approved by designer.
